"Bella Roo" is a tidy example of the Catalina 34 Mk II which is a mid-size cruising monohull intended for coastal cruising and comfortable family sailing. It is known for a spacious interior, good sailing balance, and straightforward handling for small crews. The boat uses a masthead sloop rig, fin keel, and a spade rudder, giving it responsive steering and stable performance under sail.

This 2001 version comes with Beta 25hp inboard engine, new sails, Sprayhood, Bimini, Raymarine Hybrid Plotter, Auto pilot, wind & speed, new 3D Tender and includes berthing until August 2026.

Hot water system needs new calorifier and heating system is de-commissioned.
