Sloop 1400 now in the online auction. everyone can bid until 16 March 2026.

<h2>Wooden Sloop 1400 (2005) â#128;“ robust base for a tour boat or luxury private yacht</h2>This Wooden Sloop 1400 from 2005 offers a notably spacious and tough foundation for anyone looking for a large sloop model with plenty of possibilities. With a length of 14.00 metres and a beam of 3.50 metres, this is a vessel that immediately impresses with its proportions and potential for a practical layout. Thanks to the shallow draft of approx. 1.50 metres and an air draft of approx. 1.50 metres, this sloop is interesting for a wide range of cruising areas, including inland waterways, lakes and routes with bridges where a low superstructure is desirable. The vessel is ideally suited to buyers looking for a project to finish to their own requirements as a tour boat, representative day boat, or a luxury private yacht with its own style.<h3>Sloop 1400 now in the online auction. Everyone can bid up to and including 16 March 2026.</h3><h3>Design, dimensions and handling</h3>A 14-metre sloop combines the open character of a sloop with the space and stability of a larger motor yacht. The 3.50-metre beam contributes to a solid position in the water and offers plenty of freedom for a generous cockpit layout, seating benches, a bar arrangement or a practical passenger layout if you wish to use the vessel as a tour boat. The wooden hull gives the vessel a warm, classic appearance that suits both traditional and modern fit-out concepts. Wooden construction appeals to many enthusiasts because of its authentic look and character that no other material can fully replicate.Thanks to the combination of length and beam, you can expect a comfortable cruising experience, with steady tracking and a stable feel when moving around on board. This type of sloop is perfectly suited to relaxed cruising, representative outings with guests, or creating a luxury day-cruiser feel where space and experience take centre stage.<h3>Fit-out possibilities: from tour boat to private yacht</h3>The core of this offering is flexibility. This vessel is particularly interesting for someone looking for a hull or base platform to develop further. Consider a fit-out as a tour boat with a clear helm position, ample seating and a practical boarding arrangement. But a luxury private yacht is also a realistic option, for example with a comfortable cockpit, an enclosed cabin and bespoke work in wood or modern materials.An aluminium canopy is included separately with the vessel.<h3>Engine and technology</h3>A separate MAN marine diesel engine of 135 hp is also available with the boat.<h3>Trailer included: practical for storage</h3>A storage trailer without registration or inspection is included, which can be a major practical advantage for storage or planning work. Especially for a fit-out project, it is convenient when moving the vessel can be organised more easily.<h3>Who is this 14.00 m hull sloop suitable for?</h3>This Sloop 1400 is particularly attractive to the buyer looking for a large, robust vessel with character and space, and who wants to complete the fit-out themselves. Whether you dream of a wooden tour boat with presence, a spacious day boat for family use, or a luxury private yacht with a unique layout: this vessel offers a base with size, presence and development potential. With its wooden construction, 14-metre length, included aluminium canopy and the available 135 hp MAN marine diesel, this is an offering that invites you to realise a personal and distinctive boating project.
