SUMMER READY FOR NEW ADVENTURES
Designed by celebrated designer Bill Dixon and built by Marine Projects, the Moody 376 is widely regarded as one of the most successful centre cockpit cruising yachts of her era. Strongly built and highly seaworthy, she offers an excellent balance of comfort and performance, with a protected centre cockpit and a spacious, well-proven interior ideally suited to extended cruising.
Below deck, she features a full-beam aft owner's cabin and a generous forward double, both with en-suite facilities including electric toilets and showers. The main saloon offers a convertible double berth to starboard, along with a practical pilot berth aft of the navigation station; deal for passagemaking.
The renowned Moody build quality is evident throughout, with intelligent design, excellent storage, and a reassuringly solid feel.
One of the last of her line, this example has been well maintained and thoughtfully upgraded by a knowledgeable owner, presenting a capable, comfortable, and inviting cruising yacht—ready to set off on her next adventures this season.
