what makes this bestevaer 850 suitable for inland waterways?

she is compact enough to navigate many routes while also being spacious enough to live on board comfortably. the combination of an 8.50-metre length and a 2.75-metre beam provides a stable platform, while the draft of approximately 0.80 metres makes it possible to explore shallower stretches of water. the boat is steered with a wheel from an inside position, which is convenient in changeable weather and during longer trips. thanks to the electric bow thruster, the boat is also easier to manoeuvre into a berth or alongside a quay, providing extra peace of mind, especially in busy harbours and narrow canals.

inside, you will find practical accommodation designed for relaxed cruising and simple stays on board. the boat has a dining area that can also serve as a pleasant place to read or play cards. mattresses are available for longer trips, and there is refrigerated storage in the form of a refrigerator with a freezer compartment, supplemented by a separate freezer. cooking is possible on board using a cooker, keeping lunch or a hot meal within easy reach while underway. for cooler days, there is a heater, making her an attractive choice for weekends on the water outside the high season as well.

the toilet is manually operated and discharges directly into the open water. this is an important point to take into account when making your own plans for use, as well as the local regulations in the waterways where you intend to cruise.

she is equipped with a peugeot indenor inboard diesel engine, type 50x4m90s, producing 50 hp from four cylinders. the engine has electric starting and is reported to be operational. the stated fuel consumption is approximately 3 litres per hour, making her interesting for anyone looking for a diesel-powered motor yacht that can be operated economically on inland waterways. the fuel tank has a capacity of approximately 100 litres. instruments including a temperature gauge and rev counter are available for monitoring the engine. the maximum speed is stated to be around 12 kilometres per hour, suitable for relaxed cruising and the speed limits on many inland waterways.
