Contest 31 HT now in the online auction. everyone can bid until 15 February 2027.
<h2>Contest 31 HT with plenty of living space</h2><h3>What kind of boat is the Contest 31 HT?</h3> This Contest 31 HT is a polyester sailing boat from 1979, built by Conyplex to a design by Dick Zaal. With a length of approximately 9.30 metres and a beam of 3.15 metres, she offers a combination of sheltered outdoor space and practical accommodation inside. Her draught is approximately 1.45 metres and her air draught is around 1.85 metres. This makes her suitable for various inland waterways and sailing areas where these dimensions are important. The boat has been used for day trips, weekends, holidays and longer stays. She has also been considered as a houseboat. Her layout makes her suitable for a family, a couple or someone wishing to stay on board for longer periods. The current owner describes her as a family boat with space for two to four people. Over the years, she has been personally fitted out, and various parts have been worked on. <h3>How much sleeping accommodation does she offer?</h3> There are five permanent berths on board. The exact arrangement depends on how the saloon is used and on the mattresses available. This gives the boat plenty of versatility for a family or group that occasionally wants to travel together. Those mainly travelling as a couple will benefit from additional living space inside. The accommodation consists of a dining area, mattresses, a cooking stove, oven, microwave, refrigerator and freezer. Hot water is also available. For sanitary facilities, she has a manual toilet, a shower and a holding tank with a capacity of approximately 200 litres. According to the information provided, the toilet outlet is connected directly to open water. The freshwater tank also has a capacity of approximately 200 litres. <h3>What facilities are available on deck and inside?</h3> The helm is located outside and is operated with a steering wheel. The boat has a single rudder. On board there are an alternator, voltmeter, wind generator and solar panel. Depending on the condition and operation of the individual components, these facilities can help manage the electrical power while staying on board. A lifebuoy is included as safety equipment. The Contest 31 HT has a Volvo Penta diesel engine. According to the information provided, the engine is operational. As the engineâ€™s year of manufacture, specification and maintenance history have not been specified in greater detail, it is advisable to pay attention to the engine compartment, connections, controls and general condition of the installation during the viewing day. A trailer is not included in the sale. <h3>What is known about the condition of the boat?</h3> The boat is described as being in good condition. The last recorded maintenance carried out ashore took place in 2022. Antifouling was applied in the same year. The seller states that there are no known defects. At the same time, it remains important to inspect the Contest 31 HT carefully during the viewing day, as an inspection allows you to form your own impression of the hull, deck, interior, systems and equipment. The owner states that she has been lovingly fitted out and that various items have been repaired. It is also mentioned that the owner intended to carry out further work before the sale. The current specification and finish are therefore best assessed on site. Pay particular attention to the general condition of the polyester, deck fittings, windows, sailing equipment, engine installation and operation of the available facilities. <h3>Who might be interested in this boat?</h3> This Contest 31 HT may be of interest if you are looking for a classic cabin sailing boat with a practical layout and several berths. Her dimensions are manageable, while she offers sufficient interior space for holidays, weekends and longer stays. With a shower, galley facilities, hot water system and spacious tanks, she is equipped with onboard comfort as a guiding principle. Those searching online for a boat to buy may consider this model as an alternative to a smaller cabin boat. She may also appeal to someone looking to buy a used boat with a clear history of use and an interior suited to longer stays. When looking for tips on buying a boat, it is advisable to consider not only the asking price but also future maintenance, the age of the engine, the condition of the sails and the operation of the electrical systems. <h3>What can you assess during the viewing day?</h3> During the viewing day, you can take your time to inspect the boat and assess the layout, finish and equipment for yourself. Check whether the berths suit your plans, whether the galley facilities match the way you intend to travel and whether the available storage space is sufficient. You can also pay attention to the steering system, engine compartment, toilet, tanks and electrical installation. According to the information provided, documentation is available. You can ask during the viewing day exactly which documents are included. With hull number A75752, the Contest 31 HT therefore offers an interesting basis for anyone looking for a classic polyester boat with living space, facilities and potential for recreational use. **
